To Have And To Hold

One of the most widely read novels in a generation in America, "To Have and To Hold", by Mary Johnston, is related in photoplay form by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, with Mae Murray, the famous stage beauty and star in the leading role. The production will mark Miss Murray's debut as a Lasky star on the Paramount Program. Wallace Reid, a favorite of the screen will appear in Miss Murray's support.

The story of "To Have and To Hold" goes back to the days of the early 17th century when a few sturdy English adventurers had the fortitude to brave the dangers of establishing a settlement in Virginia.

In contrast to them was Jocelyn Leigh, a beautiful lady of the English court, who fled from England to escape the prospect of an unhappy marriage. Captain Percy, a Virginian settler, marries Jocelyn, but his right to her hand is challenged by Lord Carnal who followed Jocelyn from England. Thereafter, is a series of exciting incidents in the effort of Captain Percy to exercise his right "to have and to hold."

"The Little Gypsy"

The Little Gypsy is a drama of heart appeal and moving human interest. Starred in it the most delightful and dainty of all dramatic stars, Dorothy Bernard, already a beloved favorite of patrons of the William Fox photodramatic features. The "Little Gypsy" tells the love story of a girl of Romany blood, but gentle breeding, for a man whose being appeals to her even to the sacrifice of her highest hopes and ambitions.

Among the rugged heather-grown hills of old Scotland, The Little Gypsy lives out her romance and ultimately attains the happiness for which she has long striven. She defies convention but in so doing satisfies the longing of her heart. Altogether a masterpiece of photodramatic craftsmanship.

Kennedy Square.

St. George Temple, an aristocratic old gentleman lives in his fine old home in Kennedy Square, and is liked by everyone. Harry Rutter tells him of his love affair and his troubles, and the old gentleman acts as peacemaker between Rutter and Kate, daughter of Hon. Douglass Seymour. It proves a thankless job, and after a duel in the Rutter home, between Harry and a rival suitor, Harry is put out of the house by his father and comes to live with St. George. Things go from bad to worse, when St. George loses his money and Harry goes away to South America. After making a fortune from a ruby mine, the young man returns to find the old gentleman living in poverty; and makes full restitution. This time St. George acts the part of peacemaker successfully and Kate and Harry are married.

For The Defense

No star of the legitimate stage, who has entered in the greater field of photoplay acting, has achieved within so short a time, the extraordinary success that has come to Fannie Ward, the famous American comedienne. She is now the star in the Paramount Picture, "For The Defense", produced by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company and written by Hector and Margaret Turnbull.

In this production Miss Ward will appear as a petite French girl who coming to this country as a stranger, is suddenly thrown into the midst of a great tragedy. By an accident she becomes the sole witness to a murder for which a young man, unknown to her until he later assists her, is accused. When this man, who has kept secret from her his true identity is later accused of crime, none but the little French girl is able to prove his innocence. The scenes of "For The Defense", are laid in New York, and in the beautiful West. It is a story of great suspense from beginning to end.

"The Iron Claw" will continue and allow Pearl White further opportunity to exhibit her ability and daring.

OUR ISLAND CONTEMPORARIES

Voluntary Limitation Of Sales

The Best Strategy

Once let a preponderance of the influential Army officers stationed here be enlisted in the cause of prohibition for Hawaii, sore trouble will be in sight for those who have money invested in the business.

Of all the national interests centered in this archipelago, its importance as the first defensive outpost for the Pacific Coast of the United States is absolutely paramount. So far as these islands are concerned they are a loss financially to the United States. What money the nation derives from its different sources here is more than returned through the various military channels.

Hence should a preponderance of the officers high in command of the soldiery here get the impression that the morale of the troops was suffering excessively or needlessly through the consumption of liquor, cause for considerable worry to the dealers would be present.

This being the case, it would look like good strategy on the part of the liquor dealers to voluntarily limit their sales to men of the service—or anybody else, for that matter,—by his capacity to conduct himself with law-abiding decorum.

The very best strategy consists of anticipating the intentions of the opposition and beating the opposition to it.—The Service.

Some of the most delicious strawberries which are grown in this Territory are raised by Gustave Kretschmar near the Volcano, yet Mr. Kretschmar writes that thousands of quarts of this delicious fruit go to waste every season. Just at this time they are as fine as the best California berries.—Kohala Midget.

The Civic Convention

The civic convention next year, will in the natural order of things, be held in Honolulu, and we are inclined to the opinion that, for quite awhile at least, future sessions of the body should be convened in the city. There is practical work for the civic convention and out of it may be developed practical results, but before that can be accomplished we must modify the pleasure jaunt aspect which has dominated the civic convention in the past and let straight business have a swing for an indefinite period. Theorists and "hot-air merchants" who hunger for new worlds to conquer may take issue with this view, and the jaunter undoubtedly will; but the majority, aiming for results and unimpaired of the gilded fringe which has intruded itself upon the civic convention idea will concede that the recognized objects of the organization may best be promoted by concentrating thought and endeavors upon the purely business objects of the institution.

The first civic convention, held at Hilo, accomplished nothing of real value, and the same may possibly be said of the affair on Kauai last year. At Wailuku the previous year a bold effort was made and some genuine good probably resulted. Aside from that, however, the civic conventions held in the outer islands have proved little more than pleasure jaunts, and we have no hope that they will ever improve.

A compromise might be made to the end that each alternate convention be held away from Honolulu, or that every third year the affair be turned into a pleasure jaunt as in the past, but we certainly hope that the present scheme will be abandoned—at least for a number of years.—Garden Island.

The Chamber Of Commerce

The Kauai Chamber of Commerce now has a membership of 130, an increase of 23 for the year, after deducting members who have left the island or have dropped out in other ways, or for other reasons. This, we believe, makes it the second largest commercial organization in the Territory in point of numbers, being exceeded only by the Chamber of Commerce of Honolulu. In its membership is included men in all walks of local business and professional life, thus making it representative in the fullest sense.

A strong, well organized and perfectly keyed commercial organization is a valuable asset to any community. It is worth while, it should be supported to the limit, and be kept alive and awake "on the job" at all times. The co-operation of the officers and committees and the members and their alertness at all times are necessary. Given these essentials, even greater success than in the past is assured for Kauai's commercial organization.—Garden Island.

It is about time that the eight-hour law was made a fact in America. In the most democratic country in the world—Australia—the eight-hour rule prevails and everybody is satisfied with it.—Hawaii Herald.
